Truth Stirring Enough

George Washington's birthday anniversary prompts a thought:

Why do we make up fables to illustrate the greatness of our country's statesmen when their real lives are so much more impressive?

Why do we have to make so much out of the legend that Washington told his father he had, indeed, cut down the cherry tree?

It is fine, of course, that Washington was truthful. But it is a pity we must make up fables to illustrate his honesty. Washington should be remembered for other, greater deeds; for his real accomplishments.

Born in Westmoreland County, Va., Washington did not attend school until after he was 11 years old. Yet when he was only 16 he started a career as a surveyor.

It was when he was a surveyor that Gov. Dinwiddie of Virginia wished to send a message to the French along the Ohio River valley and chose Washington to lead a small group of men on the 1,000-mile journey.

Washington had adventures on that journey that were worthy of the Daniel Boone legend.

When the call went out for soldiers during the French and Indian War, Washington met the challenge and served bravely.

He was chosen a delegate to the First and Second Continental Congresses. It was at the second in 1775 that he was chosen to lead an American army.

The army consisted of raw, untrained citizens. These men had come from their farms at the news of trouble. They were without uniforms and camp equipment. Their rifles were their own.

It was Washington's task to shape them into a fighting team. For seven years he fought not only the British, but apathy, defection and a wrangling Congress from 13 independent, sovereign, jealous states.

After the war, Washington was asked to preside over the convention which framed the Constitution. It was this same Constitution which provided for a president, and Washington was asked to be the first president of the United States.

Which of these deeds, should he be remembered for?

He was not a military genius. No one claims he was. There is some argument as to whether he was a great president. He was not even a polished surveyor.

What, then, should he be remembered for?

George Washington should be remembered as a man who so loved his country that he was willing to serve it in any way he could, a man who spent his life in the public service.

Truly it can be said of him that he pledged his life, fortune and his honor to the ideals of the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, and his country.

Card Currency

America's first paper currency consisted of "IOU" notes written on backs of playing cards. Jacques de Muelles, French governor in Quebec, found himself without sufficient funds to pay his troops in 1685, so he resorted to cutting playing cards into quarters and assigning certain values to each piece. This strange "card currency" was in use until the fall of Quebec in 1759, nearly three-quarters of a century.

The Story of a Pocketknife

When Washington Nearly Resigned

By ROBERT COCHNAR

George Washington almost quit his command during the brutal winter of 1777-78 at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

If he had, the outcome of the American Revolution and the revered position Washington holds in the history of his country might have been considerably different. And, according to at least one report of that long winter, a pocketknife caused the Commander-in-Chief to change his mind.

After bitter defeats by the British at Brandywine and Germantown and unable to retreat to the British-held Philadelphia, the Continental armies had no alternative but to create a makeshift camp on the frozen hills of Valley Forge.

The bedraggled and dispirited soldiers had little food, almost no clothing and barely existed in rough log huts which provided slight shelter against the harsh wind. Thousands starved. Bare feet made bloody prints in the snow.

Large supplies of shoes, uniforms and food were stored not far away, but the inaction of the Continental Congress kept them from the armies. The Congress, in fact, had been driven out of Philadelphia by the British and covered in York, Pa., about 100 miles away from Valley Forge.

Washington endured treason, faithlessness, abuse, jealousy and personal treachery. He had little support and could barely hold his tattered troops together. Tory ministers shouted from the pulpits, urged his assassination. John Adams had resigned from the Army and was home in Braintree, Mass. Jefferson, never a soldier, rested comfortably at Monticello.

The general's great store of patience was nearly empty.

As he considered his almost hopeless position, he never thought of the pocketknife his mother had given him as a boy. It was a kind of consolation gift for obeying her command to refrain from accepting a commission as a shipboardman in the British Navy.

In presenting the gift, Mary Washington told her son, "Always obey your superiors." Symbolizing as it did a crisis that might have ruined him, Washington always carried the knife with him. The winter at Valley Forge was no exception. One day, during a particularly dismal period of the encampment, he came to a reluctant decision. The general summoned his staff and astonished it by reading a letter of resignation.

His aides begged him to reconsider, but Washington refused until one associate, Col. Henry Knox, asked him if he had forgotten about the knife. The dejected leader was puzzled until Knox asked:

"Did you not receive that knife with the admonition always to obey your superiors? Have you not in the present instance been ordered by the Congress to command this army? And isn't it true that Congress has not yet ordered you to relinquish this command?"

Washington hesitated. The reminder of the turning point of his boyhood quickly grew into the realization that he could not allow his temporary feelings to cause him to make a tragic decision at a time when the fate of his young nation so much depended on him.

General Washington smiled thinly. And tore his resignation to bits.

The World Today

Senate 'Love Affair' to Undergo Test

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—"Mike, we love you."

This from the Republican leader of the Senate, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, to Mike Mansfield of Montana, leader of the Senate Democrats, a few years ago on a Mansfield birthday. He's 60 now.

The love affair between Mansfield and the other 99 senators will undergo a fierce test in the next few months as the Senate's Southern Democrats try to kill the civil rights bill with a filibuster.

The Senate may start on this bill, already passed by the House, next week. It's the toughest bill of its kind the Senate ever confronted.

Thursday night Mansfield was asked how long he thought the Southern filibuster might continue before an attempt was made to stop it. He said: "Months."

To cut off the Southerners would require a vote by two-thirds of all the senators present on the floor when the vote was called for. If all 100 were there, it would mean 67 senators, no easy number to come by.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and other liberal Democrats will do the actual leading of the fight for the bill. But Mansfield, as Senate leader, said he will have to be on the floor almost all the time.

The captain of the Southerners, Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, a veteran of other civil rights fights going away back into the 1940s, said his group is prepared "to be there 24 hours a day."

He said "we don't mind around the clock sessions." Some advocates of civil rights legislation have long felt that wearing the Southerners down in around-the-clock sessions is the only way to smash a filibuster.

But Mansfield plans to keep the Senate in session only from 10 in the morning until 10 at night. He said Thursday night around-the-clock sessions are out unless some extraordinary situation develops, and he doesn't foresee that.

Asked if this was because he feared some of the older Senate members might collapse under the strain, he said this was only one consideration and then emphasized this:

"The only purpose of 24-hour sessions would be attrition on the Southerners. But attrition works both ways, and perhaps more on the other side than on the filibusterers."

"I am not going to turn the Senate into a circus."

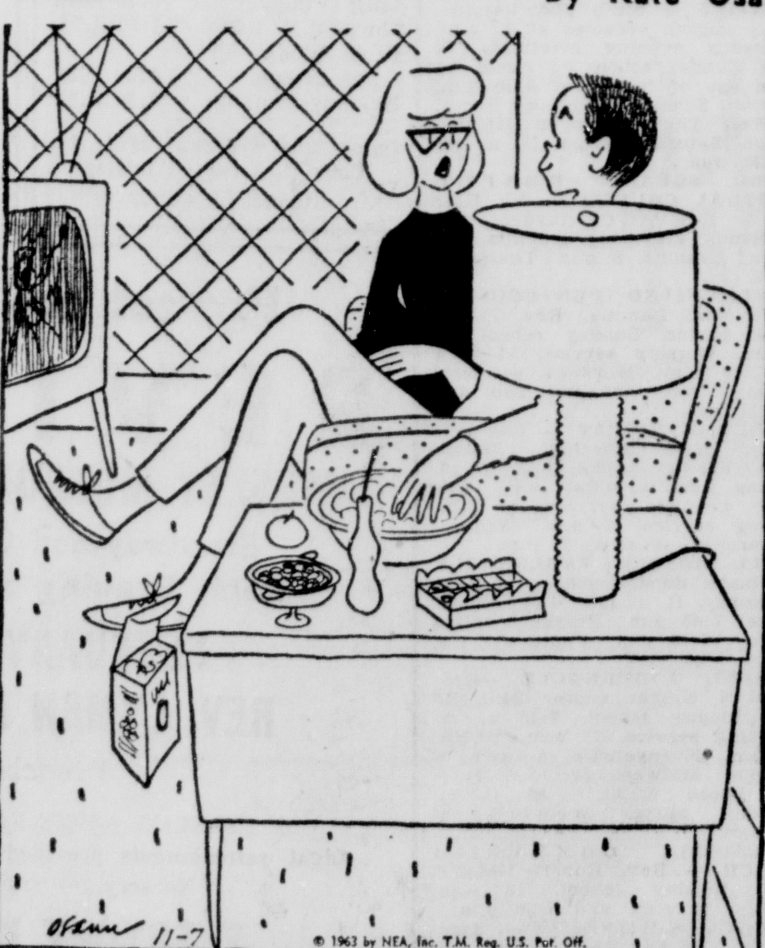

This concern about not letting the Senate get a carnival look is an old theme with Mansfield. Last year, in defending his record as Senate leader from some extremely harsh criticism, he had said:

"I am neither a circus ringmaster, the master of ceremonies of a Senate night club, a tamer of Senate lions, or a wheeler and dealer. I confess freely to a lack of glamour."

Once, reflecting on his life and hard times in the Capitol, he admitted: "Actually, the Senate leadership is a headache. You can't please everyone. Every senator is a prima donna in some way."

We the Women

Men--Here's Lowdown On Secret Hattitude

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"A woman's hat, when worn indoors, serves no useful purpose." So ruled a California justice and his associates on the State District Court of Appeal.

The question arose because a woman lawyer, asked by a lower court to remove her hat in the courtroom, promptly moved for a mistrial.

If men think that a woman's hat worn indoors serves no useful purpose, they just don't know what goes under a woman's bonnet.

Some of today's hats are designed to cover up pin curls and even rollers—a woman who hasn't time to sit under a hair dryer can let her curls set while she shops, makes a quick trip (or, conceivably, defends a client in court).

But even an ordinary bonnet can be a cover-up for a hair-do that has gone limp and is no longer the crowning glory a woman's hair is expected to be.

What woman hasn't confided to a friend who asks, "Are you going to wear a hat to the luncheon?"—"I have to. My hair looks terrible!"

Career women in particular, hard as it is for them to get to a beauty salon often enough to keep today's hard-to-maintain coiffures in presentable condition, depend heavily on the hat to give them a chic appearance they would not have without it.

So a woman's hat often serves a more utilitarian purpose than a mere man would ever suspect. After all, when a man admires a woman's hat she just smiles prettily, and says "thank you."

She would never confess the reason she is wearing a flower-bedecked bonnet is because her hair is a mess, or that underneath that flattering turban is a head covered with pin curls.

Yourself Is the Best Gift

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY—Gifts are always a problem when one is on a limited income, so I have worked out a system which my family and friends seem to like.

I send a card, appropriate for the occasion, and on it is an offer of some personal service for the receiver. It may be an offer to baby sit for small children whose mother will welcome a chance to dine out with her husband. We decide later on the day and time. Or, I give an hour of reading to a sick friend. I live close to town, so I offer to do shopping for a friend who lives in the country. I give another friend who has a large family one afternoon of my time, doing her mending and putting buttons on the children's clothes while she irons. During this time we enjoy a visit together.—MRS. J. S.

GIRLS—Giving something of ourselves is a gift money cannot buy.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—When we bought a new box spring and mattress for our son's bed, we put the old wire type springs and the mattress on the basement floor for the children to play on. This has certainly saved the beds. They are no longer jumped on as the children have a bouncing pad which provides hours of fun. My nerves are saved, too, as the youngsters can now jump on something and come to no harm.—H. E. M.

DEAR POLLY—Keep a list of measurements of each member of the family in your sewing basket. Much time is saved as you do not have to wait for them to be at home when lengthening dresses, fixing waistbands and so on.—MRS. M. S. D.

DEAR POLLY—There was simply no space in one of our rooms for a much-needed desk. We made a substitute out of a 36x24-inch piece of 1/2-inch plywood. We rounded off the edges of the plywood and attached three pieces of wood 12x3x1/2 to the large piece. The whole affair was then painted. This desk top is put to use by opening a bureau drawer and dropping three attached prongs into the drawer opening so the desk top does not slip off. When not in use, this desk is easily stored back of a piece of furniture or in a closet.—DENISE

DEAR POLLY—When I purchase a new pair of gloves, I always sew small snaps inside close to the hem, one half on each glove. When taking the gloves off at a party or public gathering, I snap them together. Even if I lose them it is not a total loss. The finder has two gloves instead of one. Also I snap them together before putting away in my dresser drawer so they are not separated and hard to find.—MRS. G. B.

The Doctor's Mailbag

Worry, Anger Aggravate Stomach Ulcers, Upsets

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What is the difference between a stomach ulcer and a nervous stomach? My doctor thinks I have an ulcer but he is treating me for both conditions.

A—A stomach ulcer is an organic disease but it is aggravated by worry, anger or anxiety. That is why your doctor is attacking your problem on two fronts. The typical ulcer pain is localized with a finger tip just above the navel and comes on an hour or two after eating. The person who has a nervous stomach has a vague pain throughout the abdomen that may be present immediately after eating. It is likely to occur when the victim is nervously upset without any relation to the time of eating.

A doctor does not usually like to make a definite diagnosis of ulcer without X-ray proof, because there is a great deal of variation in the way these conditions affect different individuals.

Q—What causes intercostal neuralgia and what can be done to get rid of it?

A—The most common cause of severe neuralgic pains between the ribs is shingles. The pains may persist long after the acute infection has subsided. Pills are of little use in treating this condition. If the pain is severe you should consider having the affected nerve injected with alcohol or, for more permanent relief, having the nerve cut.

Q—I am 42 years old and have had nystagmus all my life. What causes it and is there any cure?

A—Nystagmus is a rapid involuntary oscillation of the eyes. When it occurs in infancy it may be due to a retinal defect, an eye infection, congenital cataract or albinism. It may develop in later life in miners and in persons with multiple sclerosis, myasthenia gravis, or peripheral neuritis. Temporary nystag-mus is present in the type of dizziness induced by whirling around rapidly in one direction. Manganese poisoning and lead poisoning may also cause it. For most of these causes there is no cure.

Q—I am a model. About a year ago I began getting welts or hives on my body where my girdle or my hose pressed on my skin. My doctor said I was allergic to the soap I was using. I changed soap and it gradually cleared up but now it has come back and my doctor doesn't know what is causing it. What should I do?

A—You do not say whether your doctor did a patch test when this trouble started to prove that your soap was the cause. If he doesn't know the cause of your present hives (usually some form of allergy), you should consult a skin specialist or an allergist.

Final Weekend
Of Keg Tourney

The final week of action of the men's 16th annual bowling tournament will get under way at 1 p.m. Saturday at Broadway Lanes with 28 bowlers competing on the first squad.

Hughesville
Tourney Past
4th Round

The fourth round of the Hughesville B Team Tournament ended Thursday evening with Calhoun, Lincoln and Hughesville taking home victories.

During the first game Calhoun walked by Lincoln 41-26. The lead in the game belonged to Calhoun throughout competition.

Calhoun's scoring was headed up by Hall sinking 15, accompanied by Slack, scoring 11, and Parks placing 8 points through the hoop. Hunt headed Lincoln scoring by sinking ten while Brandsgaard bagged seven and Ervin three.

As second game competition began LaMonte also kept a marginal lead on their opponents, Houstonia. The fourth stanza rolled around with the final score, LaMonte 52 - Houstonia 41.

Blakely, a LaMonte player hit 25 points to top his team and the evening scoring. He was assisted by his teammates Harman sinking 9 and Jarrett dropping in 8.

Houchen topped Houstonia scoring with 14 assisted by Bales with 12 points and Cofelt with 11 points.

The highlight of the evening occurred in the third and final game with Hughesville downing Green Ridge 56-52 in four overtimes.

Although Hughesville held the upper hand in the first three periods, Green Ridge rallied in the fourth stanza to tie the game. Going into the first overtime both teams faced tough competition and resulted in only two points being scored. Competition stiffened and once again both teams scored two points still tying the game up. Going into the third overtime, the atmosphere was one of nervous excitement and still both teams held each other. The scoring increased one point each to make the score three points with the fourth overtime coming.

Finally during the fourth overtime Hughesville edged by Green Ridge, outscoring them 6 to 2. A game of close competition ended with a score of Hughesville 56, Green Ridge 52.

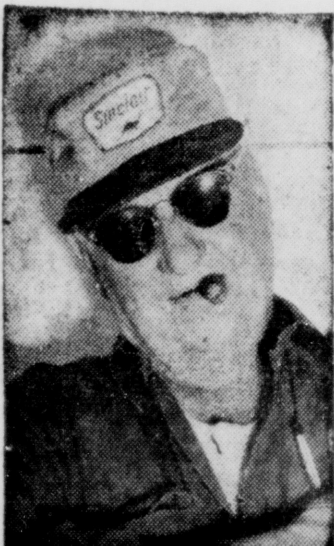

Leading the Hughesville team to victory was Butterwick sinking 23. Close behind was Done with 11, with Ray and Likely both hitting 5 points each.

The fighting for Green Ridge was lead by Wiley dropping 22 points through hoop with the assistance of Kraft hitting 20 points and McCurdy scoring eight.

The B Team Tourney goes into its final night Saturday. Beginning the playoff for the consolation will be Smithton and Hughesville with starting time at 6:15. The second game will be between Houstonia and Lincoln, playing for third place at 7:00. At 8:45 comes the game of games for the tournament. This is when Calhoun and LaMonte vie for the championship. The entire tournament has been one of fine games and keen competition which will come to end with one victorious team Saturday evening.

Plenty of room at the rear of the bus.

The whole thing is rear. Beginning to end.

Except for the number of seats for mere 91, you'd swear you were in the real thing. There's almost as much headroom as in a real bus, and 21 windows to go around.

The VW is narrower than a real bus, but the doors are even wider.

And if you'd like a genuine, bus-type aisle to pace up and down, it's yours.

The really staggering thing is how much the Volkswagen Station Wagon can hold.

Not quite as much as a real bus, but almost twice what goes into a regular station wagon.

Which is a pretty good trick, considering that the VW is 4 feet shorter.

(The VW is the only bus that can park in a bus stop and still leave room for the bus.)

Outside, the VW Station Wagon may be frontless. But inside, it's endless.

"FORE"

I live in my own private world each day from 2 a.m. until daylight. I cruise the town sometimes looking around and listening to the radio. I see some very interesting things at that hour of the morning, but more interesting and more educational are some of the things they say on the radio. For instance, this week I learned that about 30 more years, when I am 65 that I can, I may not, but I can work and make all the money that I am capable of making and still collect my full Social Security benefits. That's the way I understand it; but to understand it better I must buy 5 books, namely: "Billions in Beauty Aids", "Millions in Real Estate", "How to Make Money by Mail", "Think and Grow Rich" and the famous Social Security book on "How to Make All You Please After 65." Now here is the clincher for the sale: If you send in $4.98 today for the 5 books, as a bonus you get the greatest book of all absolutely free on "How to Scheme Yourself Into Several Thousand Dollars," all offered by Profit Research, that's Profit Research, Times Square, New York City, New York.

Now, I doubt seriously that many of the local Schemers and Mayor-Council Policy Advisors were listening to the radio at that hour, so I assume a Super Salesman sailed into Sedalia selling these tangible items (Namely Books) crammed full of intangible schemes and did a magnificent bang up selling job here. But why, as most other salesmen, didn't he get as far south as ELM HILLS PUBLIC GOLF COURSE? It could be he came out, was so impressed with our sporty fairways, or by driving balls on the driving range that he forgot to sell his books. Then on second thought, if he started selling around Second and Ohio, west west by south-west around the corner of Second and Osage and continued at least as far as, oh, say Broadway at 17th, then I know he say plumb sold out of that book "How to Scheme Yourself Into Several Thousand Dollars."

As a parting thought for this week let's all be glad we live in America. Where else, may I ask, can you go, park a couple of financed automobiles in front of a mortgaged home then cruise our bonded highways with a credit card? Russ.

First Juror Chosen

For Jack Ruby Trial In Texas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A husky, well-educated electronics employee was chosen Thursday as the first juror in the murder trial of Jack Ruby for the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused presidential assassin.

Max E. Causey, 35, father of two boys and holder of a master's degree in education, was sworn in as juror after 23 candidates before him had been rejected in the first four days of the trial.

During an examination that tapered from vigorous to calm at the hands of defense attorney Melvin M. Belli, Causey said at one point: "I am not anxious to sit on the jury."

Causey described his occupation as military electronics in an aerospace plant in Dallas.

The juror said he was attending church on the Sunday morning of Nov. 24 when Ruby shot Oswald in the basement of Dallas police headquarters.

He saw a television playback of the incident later.

In a recess chat with news-men, Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade expressed no discouragement at the slow process of picking a jury to try Ruby, 52, for the slaying of Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Asked how long he now thinks it will take to get a jury, Wade replied: "Two or three weeks." Belli rose to his feet during the questioning of jury candidate L. E. McBride, 58, an aircraft inspector.

With a sweep of one hand in a semicircle, the defense chief cried out: "We're surrounded by police officers. I've seen trials at Nuremberg where there were less officers around."

Belli then complained that three plainclothes sheriff's deputies seated immediately behind the balding Ruby were listening to consultations at the defense table.

"All he has to do is talk a little lower," suggested Asst. Dist. Atty. A. D. Jim Bowie.

Early Solution Unlikely

Reinforcements Needed In Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The new commander of British troops on Cyprus said Thursday reinforcements now flying in from Britain are needed because an early solution of the crisis seems unlikely.

As Maj. Gen. R. M. Carver took over his new command, delegates negotiated at the United Nations in New York, seeking a formula for an international force to relieve the British on Cyprus.

There was a flareup of shooting in eastern Cyprus between the feuding Greek and Turkish Cypriots, but Carver said he thought tension had eased since the crisis was laid before the United Nations.

A Greek Cypriot woman was shot by Turkish Cypriots at the northwestern village of Yialia and British troops were rushed to the area, British headquarters said. A British patrol was fired on Wednesday night in Nicosia by Greek Cypriot irregulars.

Civil Defense Funds Okay Until June 1

Judges of the Pettis County Court Thursday morning followed in the steps of the City Council and authorized funds for a local Civil Defense agency only until June 1.

Conforming action by the city and county thus assures a Civil Defense program here for at least four more months. Both the City Council and the County Court allotted a total of $800 for the agency to be used at the rate of $200 per month from each governmental unit.

Jack Kraus, director of the Sedalia-Pettis County CD agency, met briefly with the three judges of the County Court Thursday morning to receive the court's decision regarding the agency's budget. The court had delayed their decision following City Council action Monday night.

"The County Court will appropriate a similar amount as did the City Council at Monday night's council meeting," Kraus said, "to continue the agency's operations until the end of the city's fiscal year."

"At that time the County Court will again await the city's decision regarding the future of the agency," Kraus said. "The Emergency Operation Center (now located in the basement of the courthouse) must be re-

Some Offices Close Friday; Others Saturday

Most state and federal offices in Sedalia will be closed Friday in observance of Washington's birthday which falls this year on a Saturday, Feb. 22.

As the holiday falls on a Saturday, offices not normally open on Saturday are granted a holiday on the day prior.

Offices in City Hall and the County Courthouse, however, will be open as normal on Friday. The county offices will observe the holiday by closing on Saturday morning; city offices are always closed on Saturday.

"There will be no delivery of mail either in the city or on rural routes on Saturday," according to Postmaster Maurice F. Hogan.

All service windows in the lobby of the post office will be closed and a minimum number of employees will be scheduled to handle outgoing mail. Special delivery will be made as usual and the regular holiday collection schedule posted on street letter collection boxes will prevail.

"There will be normal service on the routes and at the post office on Friday," Hogan said.

Churchill Dines With Home Thursday

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Douglas-Home, 58, and his distinguished predecessor, Sir Winston Churchill, 89, dined together Thursday night.

Another former prime minister, Harold Macmillan, was to have joined them but at the last moment telephoned he was unable to come. He gave no reason.

The dinner, attended by 13 other guests, was one of the periodic meetings of the Other Club, a private organization devoted to good eating and good conversation.

Bonds Amount Confuses Some; Price Unchanged

Buildings at Second and Ohio where Sedalia's 14th off-street parking lot is to be located are costing the city $90,500, but a parking lot construction account on hand makes it necessary to finance only $80,000 of the cost by revenue bonds.

Some confusion has arisen as a result of the price quoted for the buildings in comparison to the revenue bond amount authorized by the City Council at its session Monday night.

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick pointed out Thursday that an account of $33,688.43 was on hand, remaining from construction of parking lots 12 and 13, located at Second and Osage and in the 200 block of South Osage at the rear of the Gordon Building. The $10,500 added to the $80,000 financed by revenue bonds will come from this construction account, Dedrick pointed out.

Balance of the construction account will remain on reserve.

United States Rejects A Red Plan To Cut Spending

Conference Is Urged To Adopt Soviet Proposal

GENEVA (AP) — The United States rejected a Soviet contention Thursday that the only way to slow down the arms race is by an immediate percentage cut in military spending.

The Soviet delegate, Semyon Tsarapkin, urged the 17-nation disarmament conference to adopt a Soviet proposal to reduce all military expenditures by 10 to 15 per cent.

The chief U. S. delegate, William C. Foster, resisted pressure from neutralists in favor of the Soviet proposal.

Foster said President Johnson's proposed nuclear freeze is the only real way to stop the armaments race and ease international tensions.

U.S. spokesman said the reduction of military spending by itself would do little to reduce tension.

Foster urged Tsarapkin to agree to Johnson's proposals to freeze production of intercontinental missiles and nuclear delivery vehicles.

"This would be the best way to go about reducing military budgets," Foster said.

Brazil's chief delegate, Josue de Castro, gave qualified support to the Soviet proposal. He told newsmen a treaty for reduced military spending "is the only issue which could open the way to disarmament." He was backed up by James Barrington of Burma.

Cochairman Foster and Tsarapkin could not agree on an agenda.

The American and Soviet delegation chiefs met Wednesday. Tsarapkin was reported to have demanded that the Soviet proposal for a percentage cut be the only matter put up for discussion on the agenda. Foster refused.

One conference source described Tsarapkin's move as a propaganda maneuver designed to swing the neutralist delegations behind Moscow and against the West.

Brief Freedom From City Jail Given To Man

Wallace B. Allridge, 33, 422 East 12th, who was fined $25 for careless and imprudent driving, $15 for being intoxicated in public, and sentenced to ten days in the city jail for leaving the scene of an accident, was released Thursday morning, but was back in jail Thursday night on orders of Judge U. L. Howerton.

Allridge was arrested Sunday on the three charges and Monday morning appeared in police court and was fined and sentenced by Judge Howerton. Thursday morning a friend appeared in court and promised payment of the fine and through some misunderstanding Allridge was released, after serving only three days of the sentence.

A notation placed on the police blotter on request of State Trooper Pete Stohr of the Highway Patrol, who had been called to police headquarters after Allridge's arrest on investigation of license violation, was in effect, to not to release Allridge without first contacting or taking him to the county jail to answer the license charge.

However, Allridge was released without the Trooper being notified or Allridge being taken to the county jail for the purpose of furnishing bond on the Trooper's complaint.

When told Allridge was not in jail, Judge Howerton ordered him picked up to serve out the jail sentence.

Senators Boost For Forest Service Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Missouri senators urged the Senate and House appropriations Committee Thursday to include $100,000 in forest service appropriations for next fiscal year to acquire the Markham Springs tract in Missouri's Wayne County for a recreation and scenic area.

In letters to the committees, Sens. Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long, Democrats, said the 315-acre tract on Black River could become an attraction and bring a much needed economic boost to the area.

The Markham Springs tract is owned by Rudolph G. Fuchs of Williamsville, Mo.

Negative Attitude Results

Meeting Is Held To Discuss CATV

A meeting of persons interested in the Community Antenna TV Service for Sedalia met, Thursday night, and discussed the pros and cons of the service. Consensus of opinion at the meeting was a negative attitude toward the proposed service.

The group decided to appoint a committee to discuss the problem with the Chamber of Commerce and ask for a meeting with the members of the city council to give them the adverse information regarding such service.

It was brought out the service would be a hindrance to the economy of the community to a certain degree, indicating that more than a half-million dollars would be collected over the year of which would not be of any benefit to Sedalia or the area.

CD Ruckus Prompts Letters

The ruckus over the Civil Defense budget for the year has drawn out comment from various persons, some willing to write letters, others who just "talk" on the subject both pro and con. The City of Sedalia has agreed to go along with the Civil Defense program, and so budgeted funds to carry it on until the next fiscal year budget comes due which is this June.

Members of the council who are "hold-overs" to the next council already have indicated their support to renew the budget for that period. The Pettis County Court has agreed to continue until the next council either renews or rejects the budget.

$6,000 Damage To House Near Green Ridge

Damage was estimated at $6,000 to a house and contents near Green Ridge about midday Thursday. Destroyed was the Dan Sisemore residence, Route 1, Green Ridge. The house was gutted, with only a few of the possessions saved.

The Pettis County Fire Department received the alarm at 12:10 p.m., and upon arrival they found the residence completely engulfed in flames. Out-buildings were being threatened and the fire had started to spread to them when the firemen arrived. Firemen quickly doused these buildings.

It was reported that a boy who was in the house, along with a neighbor, saved a few of the possessions.

The group plans additional meetings to discuss the proposal of several firms who desire to obtain a franchise in Sedalia for what they termed CATV.

Seek Names Of Nominees For Award

Second Annual Chamber Honors To Be Bestowed

The second annual "Citizenship Award" will be presented at the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce banquet March 10. The annual award is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Purpose of the "Citizenship Award" is to recognize an individual of Sedalia who has enriched the community by contributing time, talent and effort without expectation of recognition. The award is aimed mainly at recognizing "unsung heroes" of the community who have made contributions to community life but have not been publicly exalted for their work and time.

The award is presented for work in many fields of civic activities and not for just one. Last year the judges received many names to be considered, but many were for a single activity.

There is no age limitation for possible candidates, and they may be a man or woman. Entries may be sent to the Chamber of Commerce office or to Carl Yates, P.O. Box 207, Sedalia.

Anyone sending in an entry should list in detail all fields of civic activities the person has participated in for the judges to consider. It was also suggested, by Yates, that the individual's contribution to community welfare, participation and evidence of a lasting contribution to the community be stated.

Last year's winner of the "Citizenship Award" was William O. "Bill" Hiatt, Jr., 1609 East Ninth. Hiatt's activities included active participation in the United Fund, Lions Club, church, Sedalia Board of Education and Boy Scouting.

Resolution In Error

The resolution read at the recent council meeting setting up the bid opening date for the sale of the Sedalia sewer bonds was in error in stating the bids would be opened Tuesday, March 10.

Mayor L. L. Studer said the correct date of the bid opening is Wednesday, March 11, and that the resolution has been amended to include the correct date.

Curfew Needs Teamwork

Accidents are defined as sudden events that take place without a person's foresight or expectation. Some that occur are minor, some are major, some are tragic.

Often we hear the remark: "It wasn't anybody's fault; it was an accident."

Yet logic dictates that in many cases an accident is an effect of other causes. Consider the split second in which a train meets a truck, a swerving auto meets another on a straight highway, an inattentive pedestrian steps in front of a moving vehicle. The disastrous effects would have terminated less disastrously by some other diversionary movement give or take a few seconds either way.

Was it an accident? Was it fate? Was it predestined? Who knows?

Disciplinary or other intervention by a second person may have some relationship to prevention of an accident. On the other hand well-intentioned advice may contribute to a delay and become the cause of an ultimate effect — the accident.

This line of reasoning if accepted too literally might nullify what we have been taught is axiomatic — accidents can be prevented. It is well established that safety practices and their application under given conditions do neutralize hazards.

So the least we can do in the home and at work is go on preaching on behalf of safety in all categories of which there are countless numbers. These include alertness of the police to enforcement of the curfew ordinance requiring youngsters to be off the streets after midnight; attention of parents to the whereabouts of their boys and girls who are not home after the midnight hour.

Cooperation of police and parents is encouraged in instances that suggest joint enterprise and teamwork is warranted on behalf of capricious youngsters who blandly disregard law in the community and discipline in the home.

Disobeying either or both lead to trouble in many forms — including accidents.

'Ronnie' Came to Visit Washington

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—One of London's famous ladies of the evening who got headlines in the Christine Keeler case mysteriously entered the United States and for two months lived in the nation's capital. She hasn't attracted as much attention as the Beatles and she wasn't invited to the British embassy. She took a run out power from the U.S. on the night of Feb. 11.

She is Margaret "Ronnie" Ricardo, 22, a convicted prostitute who testified in the trial of Dr. Stephen Ward, the society osteopath who later committed suicide, that she had lied when in a preliminary hearing she told police that she had given some of her earnings to Ward. She said at the final trial that she had lied because of police pressure.

Ronnie came to the United States merely by turning up at the American embassy in London and asking for a visa. She used her real name, Margaret Leslie, and U.S. consular officials apparently did not know who she was.

Her purpose in coming to the United States apparently was to marry an American Negro whom she had known while he was on military duty in England.

The Immigration Service picked up Ronnie's trail in Washington and has set a hearing on Feb. 27 for her deportation. Meanwhile Mario T. Noto, nervous associate commissioner of immigration, has been fluttering around like a wet hen, hoping the public won't find out about the matter. Among other things, he wants to hold the deportation hearing in a small room so as to bar as much of the press and public as possible. Or, better still, he hopes Ronnie will decide to leave before the hearings.

Why Reynolds?

Sen. Everett Jordan, a stalwart citizen of Saxapahaw, N.C., and sometime naive member of the U.S. Senate, has told the press that he didn't know the dubious background of Don Reynolds because the executive branch of government had not given him the revealing file on this key witness against President Johnson in the Bobby Baker case.

Simultaneously, the senator told officials of the Executive branch that he knew about Reynolds but was badgered by the Republicans into putting him on the stand. Sen.

John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, a Republican who tells the truth, told me that the committee had known of Reynolds' background, which would tend to prove that the second, private statement by chairman Jordan is correct.

Regardless of who was telling the truth, however, Senate debate has now disclosed that Sen. Jordan's committee has spent $40,000 probing the Baker case and still has $85,000 on tap. This is a fair amount of money for a congressional probe, certainly enough for Sen. Jordan to do some routine, relatively inexpensive investigating.

Without any expenditure at all, and merely by checking newspaper files, this column ascertained that Don Reynolds in 1953 had been slapped down for unreliability as a witness before a Senate immigration committee.

With the expenditure of only $7.25 for a long distance phone call, this column was able to interview Kenneth Rich, crack correspondent of Life magazine, regarding his own rather significant visit to the Reynolds farm in Maryland.

With the expenditure of $1.20 taxi fare, this column was also able to interview Leonard Bursten, an attorney who was involved by Reynolds in the Baker case, and who had some interesting background on this star witness.

These interviews revealed, even without scrutinizing government files, that Reynolds was not the most reliable witness in the world. But apparently not even newspaper files or newspapermen were checked by Sen. Jordan's committee before giving Reynolds the powerful forum of the U.S. Senate.

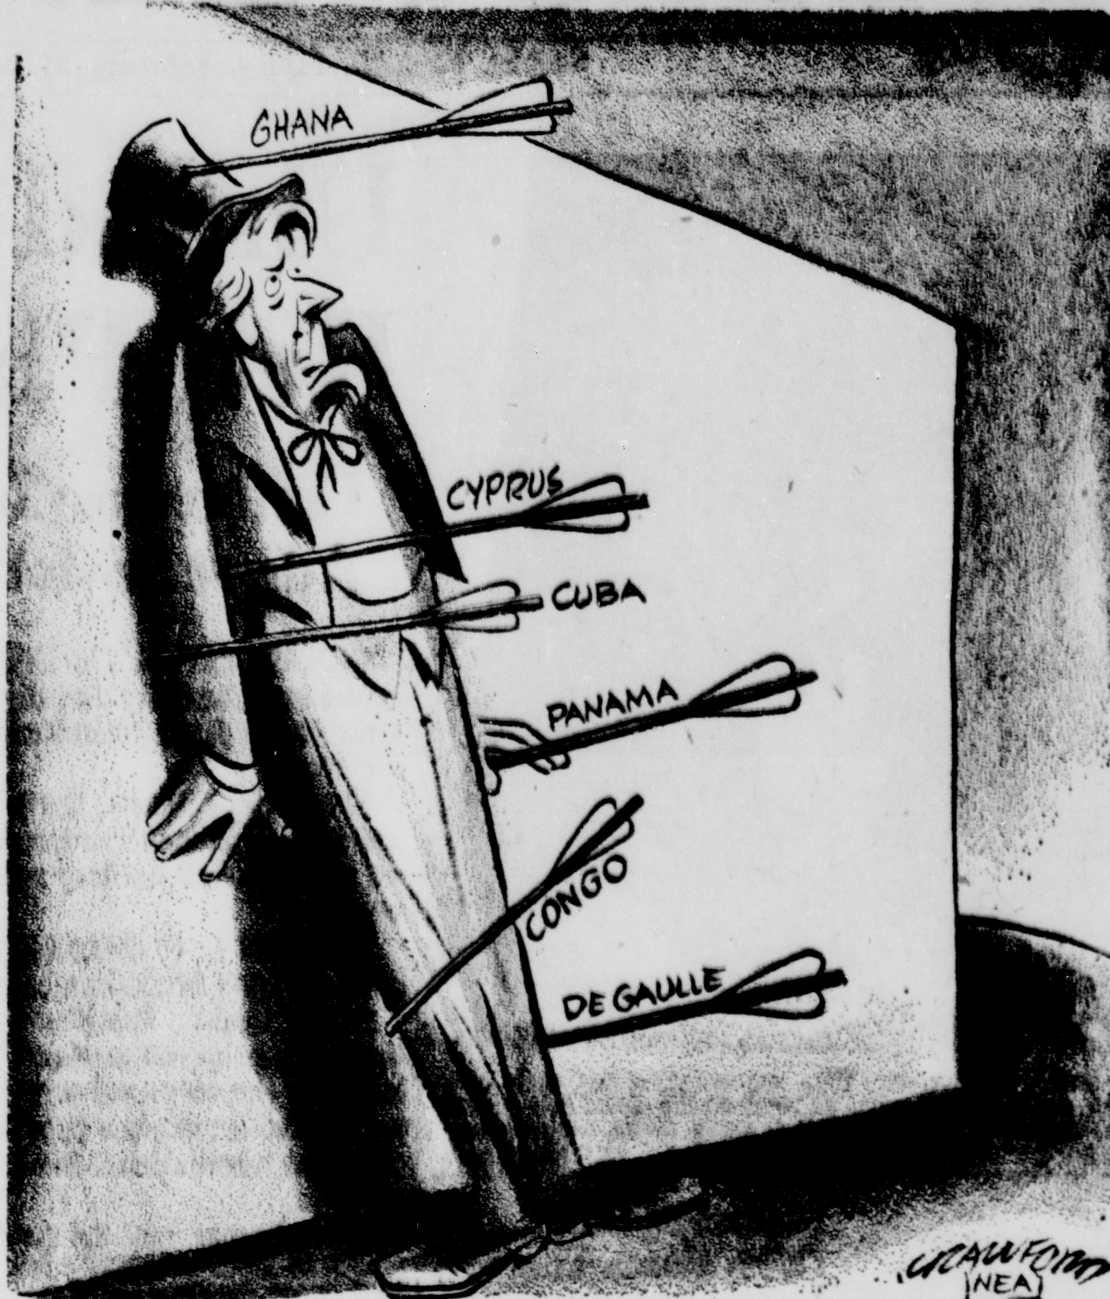

At the farm, the Life men were greeted by two huge and ferocious shepherd dogs, presumably part of Reynolds' security system.

The photographer got his long-distance side view of Reynolds, also a few close-ups while Reynolds was talking to Rich.

As they left, Reynolds cautioned Rich when he phoned never to leave his last name but to give only his first name to the secretary.

"Wiretappers, you know," he explained with a knowing wink.

The World Today

Business Is Business With British

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two allies stumbled over the dollar sign when President Johnson and British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home met two days and then issued a rather uncommunicative communique.

It was at a news conference afterwards that Douglas-Home revealed he and Johnson had failed to agree on trading with Communists or, rather, not trading. The communique didn't mention that.

The point he made—business is business—illustrates as well as anything, probably better than yards of speeches and a dozen games of diplomatic shuffleboard, the changing temperature of the cold war.

The Briton, explaining that his country opposes a ban on business deals with a Communist country just because it is Communist, said he declines to stop British trade with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

This country, wishing it could tie Castro in an economic sack away from everybody, has been irritated because Britain, and France, too, are selling Castro buses, trucks and tractors.

Since they will help him survive, the United States looks on this as a form of aid. But this country is in a bit of a contradictory position on this.

It wants to shut off aid to Castro, who is right in America's backyard, but it is willing to sell $250 million worth of U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union which has had a real shortage of it. President John F. Kennedy authorized this last year.

He took the position that the Russians could get the wheat anyway because other countries, including allies, could buy it here and sell it to the Soviet Union.

"Our allies," he said, "have long been engaged in extensive sale of wheat and other farm products to the Communist bloc."

Douglas-Home stated the British position this way. His crowded country needs to trade to live. It doesn't discriminate against Communist countries in selling them peaceful goods but it won't sell them materials for war.

He added something he had said before. The more comfortable a Communist is, the less fanatical he is likely to be.

So, whether the United States likes it or not, its allies, and no one of them more than France, will not only sell to Communist countries but try to step up their business, as France is doing.

Since nothing short of an American invasion seems likely at this time to put an end to Castro, who is selling Cuban sugar like mad to friends of the United States, he figures to be around quite a while.

Nobody in a responsible position in this country is talking of invading him. So the British, French and others are operating in the belief he will be in business and able to pay his bills.

This scramble for trade with Communist countries, with goods which build their economy and help them flourish, indicates an increasing lack of fear in the West about Communist aggression and world war.

This mood has been building up since Soviet Premier Khrushchev backed down in the Cuban missile crisis in 1962. The more the allies do business with the Communists, the more it seems likely this country will want its share.

Where this leads is unpredictable. But it appears safe to say that after almost 20 years of the cold war's era of intense and dogged hostility between the West and communism is ending, except for this country's relations with Cuba and Red China.

As for the communique issued by Johnson and Douglas-Home, it was a collection of the obvious, with surprises for none.

DEAR POLLY — Many people have mosaic tile ashtrays that remain unused. My daughter recently made one and insisted that we use it. I found the white grouting can be refreshed very quickly with white shoe polish. Apply a heavy coat, let dry. Remove the dried polish with a damp cloth and your ashtray will look like new. —MRS. D. T. S.

Girls — My assistant was more than pleased with the results in using this hint on a mosaic tile piece. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I, like most mothers, dread the mess and clutter caused by boots and galoshes. Our three children are constantly going in and out. Their boots look alike, are about the same size and there is constant clamor about who has whose boots. My niece cut 12-inch squares of oilcloth, in different colors and placed them on the breezeway floor. Each child has a different color and there is an extra and larger piece for neighborhood children's use. The children get a kick out of placing their boots on their own mats and the slush quickly disappears with a swish of a sponge mop. My neighbor went a step further. With a large indelible marker she wrote the name of a child on each mat. —DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY — As both a decorative touch and a safety measure where there are small children using basement stairs, tack colored clothesline in the open space between the handrail and the steps. Starting with two lengths of clothesline, tack one end underneath the handrail and the end of the other length to the board framing of the steps. Simply crisscross the two lines, tack again and repeat until the space is covered. —MRS. R. R. K.

DEAR POLLY — I hope my hint will help prevent someone from having a serious fall. Carry a small box or bag of salt in your purse and put one in your husband's overcoat pocket. Sprinkle some salt in front of you on slick spots, such as on slippery steps. —MRS. J. C.

DEAR POLLY — With a family of five children, floor lamps are constantly being knocked over. My husband drilled holes in the bases, and then screwed such lamps to the floor. —MRS. V. A.

GIRLS — A friend of mine did this same thing when her daughter was a teen-ager. She often had a house full of youngsters who could become a bit thoughtless. She screwed a pair of tables to the floor and then fastened the lamp bases to the table tops. —POLLY Guide Dogs for the Blind, Box 1200, San Rafael, Calif., serves states west of the Mississippi River, Hawaii and northwest Canada.

International Guiding Eyes, Inc., 5431 Denny Ave., North Hollywood, Calif., serve the U.S. and Canada.

Leader Dogs for the Blind, 1039 S. Rochester Rd., Rochester, Mich., serves the U.S. and Canada.

Guiding Eyes for the Blind, Inc., 11 W. 42nd St., New York 10036, N. Y., serves the U.S.

Q — Do changes of the moon adversely affect a person's mental state?

A — It has long been thought that phases of the moon affected people in some mysterious way just as it was long thought that the world was flat. This belief about the moon is seen in the derivation of the word "lunatic" from the Latin "luna" (moon). Although some people still believe in such a relationship, there is no evidence for it.

Q — Can the frequent use of a sun lamp cause permanent damage to the skin?

A — The sun lamp gives off ultraviolet irradiation and can produce the same damage to the skin as direct sunlight. Whether this damage is permanent (causes scarring) depends on the intensity and duration of the exposure.

Outflow of Dollars Program Takes Wind of Rates Fight

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Success in slowing the outflow of dollars to other lands is taking some of the steam out of the pressure building up for higher interest rates. These are regarded as a prime weapon in halting the drain on dollars and gold.

But some bankers say tighter money is sure to come anyway, even if the international problem eases. Others look for the official money managers to try to hold down the rate of expansion in the money supply later this year. This is sure to be fought by many in and out of government.

Involved are the two goals, often seemingly at odds—Saving the U.S. gold reserves and spurring the domestic economy to make more jobs.

Lining up in both government and banking circles are the advocates of easier money to finance a boom and on the other side those who think credit should be tightened to forestall inflation.

Some say that 1964 will see the fight against the deficit in U.S. payments with the rest of the world working even more at cross purposes with the economic boost expected from a federal income tax cut.

This would complicate the easy money debate. The official view, however, is that a booming economy here will attract foreign dollars and solve the gold problem — and hopefully furnish the needed jobs.

Interest rates were pushed up on short-term loans when so many dollars were going abroad to take advantage of higher yields there that the payments deficit was soaring and foreigners were using surplus dollars to buy U.S. gold. Higher rates here kept many of these dollars at home, and the gold loss slowed to a trickle.

Before and After Marriage

Before marriage she worries for fear his parents won't like her. After marriage the big question is: how well she likes them.

Before marriage, he talks about all the things he is going to buy her some day. After marriage he starts complaining about the grocery bill.

Before marriage he says, "I thought we'd go out to that new club for dinner tonight." After marriage, when she mentions going to the same club the reply is: "What — to that gyp joint?"

Before marriage she listens with rapt attention when he explains something to her she already knows. After marriage she says impatiently, "For heaven's sake, I know that."

Before marriage, when she asks his advice he throws his chest out and sounds like Solomon. After marriage he says, "Why ask me? That's your department."

Before marriage, she assures him that money isn't important to happiness. After marriage she is forever saying, "If we could just afford this," or "If we only had the money for that."

Before marriage, he thinks her conversation is important

Before marriage, she stays close to the phone when she is expecting him to call. After marriage he is lucky if he can catch her at home on the third or fourth try.

The kola nut is the caffeine containing fruit of the cola acuminata bush of tropical West Africa. It is an important article of diet for the natives, and the dried nuts are exported for use in the manufacture of refreshing drinks. The kola nut is cultivated extensively in the American tropics.

'The Deputy' To Broadway

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP) — "The Deputy," a play that has incited cheers, catcalls and commotion all over Europe, is being readied for Broadway, and producer-director Herman Shumlin is ready for almost anything.

"I know there will be great antagonism," he says, "but I know we are doing something important, valid and exciting for the theater."

Starring Emlyn Williams and Jeremy Brett, the exhibit is scheduled to premier at the Atkinson on Feb. 26.

Already some Jewish and Catholic groups have protested presentation of the drama that criticizes Pope Pius XII, alleging he did not speak out against Hitler's annihilation of millions of Jews during World War II.

"Only those who haven't seen it or read it are against it," Shumlin asserts. "This is a play about silence — the silence of all of us. And I mean me."

Turbulence has marked the play's course since it opened in Berlin a year ago. An uproar of protest ensued. Spectators hurled rotten eggs at the cast when it was done in Basel. Pickets paraded at its London debut.

The fiercest reaction developed in Paris, where intransigent members of audiences broke up several performances by shouting insults, blowing whistles and jumping on the stage to wrestle with the actors. A dozen other cities get productions in 1964.

Pope Paul VI has criticized it; Albert Schweitzer and Pastor Martin Niemöller are among its supporters.

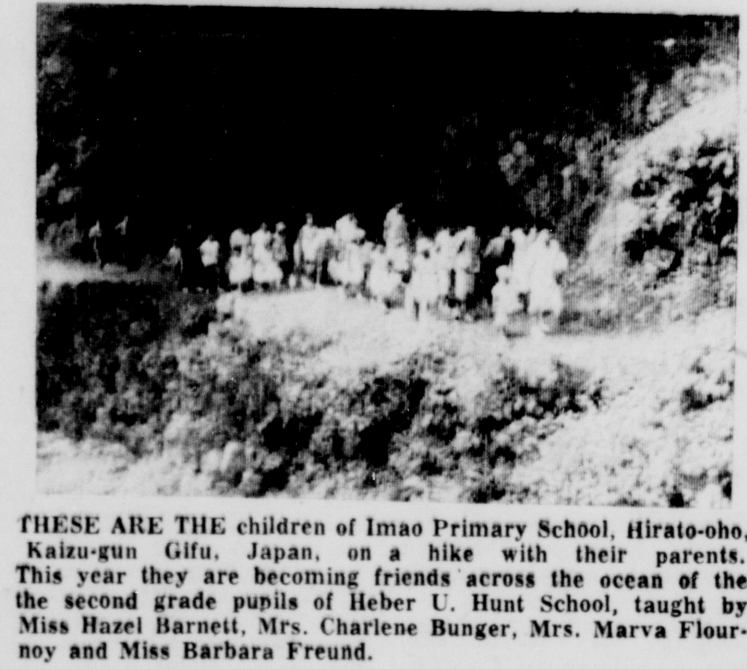

"You can measure the importance of a play by the amount of controversy it creates," declares Shumlin, a chunky-built, bald veteran of many Broadway campaigns.

"I am a man who takes the world seriously and I take the theater seriously. I believe with Shaw that the theater is the foremost pulpit in the world from which to speak.

"The place where too many Catholics are offended is in the actual presentation of Pius XII on stage. They wouldn't mind if this Pope had died 200 years ago. No one objects to references to a Pope in 'Luther' or in 'A Man For All Seasons'."

The pontiff appears in only one scene of the original, but a reading of the full-length work — to be published here by Grove Press — discloses continuous emphasis on the Holy See policy in 1942.

"Why is there not a single word heard from the only man in Europe still free today from any taint of propaganda? The Pope," one character asks early in the action.

The indictment intensifies when the drama's central figure, a young priest based upon two German clerics of World War II, declares:

"A deputy of Christ who sees these things and nonetheless permits reasons of state to seal his lips — who wastes even one day in thought, hesitates even for an hour to lift his anguished voice in one anathema to chill the blood of every last man on earth — that Pope is . . . a criminal."

At the drama's end the priest accompanies a group of Jews to the furnaces of Auschwitz. Says Shumlin: "The Pope is only a symbol — he is representative of the silence of everyone in those days.

"If the play only reminded us that we failed as human beings then, I don't think I'd do it."

"But I hope this play will make people say — such silence is true even today. We've all taken the easy way in the problems that face our world — and we need to be awakened to our responsibility."

Portraying the young priest is Brett, a Londoner in his first major Broadway appearance.

"I'm not Jewish, I'm not Catholic," says Williams. "I'm just an actor who knows a good role."

His Job: Safer Flying

By BOB SHAW

OKLAHOMA CITY — One afternoon in 1947 a crop-dusting pilot was about to finish spraying a field in Maryland.

The sun was on the horizon, and his vision was impaired. He was tired.

As he banked the biplane to make another pass at the field, the lower left wingtip caught a power line. He had misjudged his distance.

The plane flipped over. The pilot tried to fly it upside down, but he was too close to the ground. The craft plowed into the field upside down.

Howard Hasbrook's left arm was broken in eight places between the elbow and the shoulder. His left shoulder was dislocated. His chest was crushed. Several vertebrae in his neck were dislocated. His face, chest and neck were cut by glass. His head struck an overhead fuel tank. He was drenched with fuel.

"I should have been killed," he said of the accident. "Most crashes of this type are fatal."

Today Hasbrook investigates aviation accidents. He looks for reasons for any injuries or reasons for the lack of injuries. Hasbrook, whose gray hair has receded enough to show a scar from his 1947 crash, is chief of the crash safety section and flight research operations at the Federal Aviation Agency's Civil Aeromedical Research Institute here.

Flown Them All
Hasbrook has flown practically every type of civilian aircraft since he became a pilot in 1930. He coordinates all flight research for the institute, and takes the controls of a specially instrumented T34 on research flights. Before he came here three years ago, Hasbrook was director of Cornell University's aviation crash injury research program.

Hasbrook summed up his work this way:

"We come up with data that a design engineer can take and design an airplane with no additional weight, with no loss in performance, so anyone involved in a survivable accident not only will survive, but without serious injury, regardless if the accident is caused by pilot failure."

In aviation, both commercial and private, Hasbrook sees two great dangers to an airplane occupant in case of a crash landing.

He might receive a severe head injury from striking his head on a seat back or the instrument panel, or he might be fatally stabbed by a sharp object in the aircraft. Also, he might have a chance to survive, but die in a subsequent fire if his escape route is blocked.

Hasbrook has a ready remedy for most cases — a shoulder harness for the pilot and his passengers.

In airplanes used for crop dusting Hasbrook also would install the instrument panel so it would break free and fall forward on high impact, and would install soft, shock-absorbing material above the panel.

He calls this "delethalization." That's a word he claims credit for coining. "I needed a word to say what it would take a paragraph to explain," he said.

Hasbrook says the plane in which he crashed was inadvertently delethalized. That's why he wasn't killed.

Delethalizing Cars

Most of his work now involves humans in airplanes, but he also has worked in automobile crash safety.

First, he's all for seat belts for everybody.

He also would build doors which would stay locked after high impact. Instruments would be imbedded deeply in a cushioned panel. And the windshield would be installed out of reach, or would be constructed to pop out on impact.

Perhaps the most lethal piece of hardware in an auto, Hasbrook says, is the steering column.

One end of the long steel shaft is about a foot from the driver's chest. The other end is near the left front wheel — a likely point to take full impact in a collision.

Auto manufacturers would make Hasbrook happy by going back 30 years or so in their design of the steering mechanism. In the '30s he says, steering was done through a series of links between the wheels and the driver. There was no potentially fatal spear pointed at the driver, he says.

Hobby Injury
When he isn't flying, Hasbrook is on horseback. He raises quarterhorses. He also is a rodeo fan.

Last May, the man who tries to keep airline passengers intact, was attending a rodeo at Harrah, Okla. He was sitting on the top row of the bleachers. A woman sat on his foot. He leaned back to remove his foot and the back rest broke.

Hasbrook fell eight feet to the ground. His head narrowly missed the front bumper of a car parked behind the seats. His hip was broken.

He now walks with a slight limp, with a steel pin, a small steel plate and seven screws in his leg.

Hasbrook says he may try some day to figure a way to keep rodeo spectators intact, also.

Judgment And Respect Is Nurtured

People-to-People Program Viewed As Peace Route

By Hazel Lang

The bold letter of a youngster painstakingly printed between the blue lines of the white paper from a large schoolroom notebook and written on both sides is a little letter, among many other letters, written together by Benny, Ian, John, Andrew & Vivien — each one signing their own name.

It begins: "Dear Friends," and is from Achergill School, by Wick, Caithness, Scotland, to their new found friends in America the fourth grade pupils, taught by Mrs. Estelle Ellis at Heber Hunt School. It is a "Little People to Little People," program.

"We are the youngest pupils in our school," they wrote. "Some of us are just five. We like to play at cowboys and Indians. In winter we go sledding and have snowball fights. We have fun. We sometimes dance to the music on the wireless."

Achergill is a rural school near Wick and Jean Roy is the teacher with children in her school from five to 12 years old.

"Our land is flat," wrote nine year old Anne Leith. "We have no mountains but we have lochs and rivers. Our nearest town is called Wick. We are just finished our exams. There are six in my class. There are 23 in all the school. In summer we see the yachts out in Sinclair Bay. In our summer holidays I went to Inverness and saw a circus. In winter time we go sledding and fling snowballs at each other and make snowmen. Sometimes we go to Ginnig castle and see dungeons. There is a new castle, too. The aeroplanes go over our school to the aerodrome. Some aeroplanes are very big. At Christmas time Santa Claus comes and gives us a toy. He gave me a doll with a striped frock on. The thing I like best on television is Crack-erjack."

These were some of the descriptive letters that came after the fourth grade last year, taught by Mrs. Ellis, had written to the school selected for them by the People to People Program, and had sent not only letters but pictures of the school the children had sketched and pictures of various things about town.

It had been an exciting time for the children in the little Scotland school and as George Falconer put it, "Our classroom has many pictures stuck up on the wall. We stuck up the pictures you sent us."

George said his dad works at Dounreay, which is the atomic research establishment, and by this time he and three other boys in the school are in the high school in Wick, for it was near this time last year when the letters were written, the period between Christmas and Easter.

Almost all the people around there are farmers, he said, and corn and potatoes are sown and planted.

They sent a sample of their corn, and the Sedalia children, although perhaps none of them came from a farm, were surprised to see that it is what they call oats — but they found that all grain there is called corn.

"I see a lot of lambs in every field," George wrote, "because it is spring."

He explained their money, too. "We have many different coins," he said. "A penny and a half penny is brown, a three-penny is golden, a sixpence is silver, so is a half crown and a two shilling bit. We have paper money, too, a pound and a ten shilling note." In the package were reproductions of the various coins in cardboard money.

In the package were a couple of comic books one from a boy and one from a girl and the girl wrote: "This is my favorite—I am knitting the coat pattern inside this comic." The name of the comic was "Sunshine Weekly." There was also "John O'Groat Journal and Weekly Advertiser" and an issue of "Farming News."

Some of the papers contained a picture of Princess Alexander and the Queen from Anne Leith. The children were very much interested in her wedding for several wrote about it, but although she started out with Princess Alexander a little girl named Elizabeth MacAulay was much more interested in the wedding of her sister, on Feb. 15, 1962, in which she was a flower girl and wore a blue nylon dress.

Margaret Sinclair wrote that her sister got married, too. "I had on a yellow dress and party shoes," she said, and added, "Sheena, my little cousin, gave her a black cat."

Telling more about her way of life Elizabeth said:

"We are going to make a garden. We are going to put flowers in it. We are bringing spades to dig it. We went round collecting for the life boat. We have nearly £3. The money is used to buy life boats. Sometimes they have to go out in storms and save men who have been ship wrecked. I am in the band. I am playing a triangle. We are going to the festival in Wick."

Alastair Sinclair said he had a rabbit that is black and white, a dog that is black and white and a cat with a black eye. He also told of games they play. "We play hide and seek, rounders and football," he said.

A little girl named Helen Cormack said she had two gold fish, one orange and the other spotted, and Derek Smith wrote: "We have a budgie and it is bonny. It is green. I sold him to Gordon but he came back to my house." And for those who do not know what a budgie is, it is an Australian parakeet, and a lock is a lake.

Gordon MacAulay wrote that he has three pet lambs. They have no mother so they feed them with milk from a bottle. He has seven pigeons and just lets them eat the corn on their farm. Gordon also sent a piece of peat which they use as fuel. "Our cat has four kittens," wrote Tommy McPhee, the new boy in the school, "two are white and black and the others gray."

There was a collection of shells that Elizabeth sent and among them were four groat-buckies which she said were lucky.

Jeana Coghill said that in geography they are learning about a boy called Harry who lives in America. His father grows cotton, and she adds: "I would like to see cotton fields." Although cotton is grown in Missouri there are probably many Sedalia youngsters who have never seen a cotton field either.

Carol Mackay said a farmer who lives beside them has two boats. "He has lobsters creels, too, my daddy goes out with him to catch crabs and lobsters. I like to eat crabs. We boil them in a pan. One nearly jumped out of the pan. We had them for our tea."

John Dunnett wrote: "I help my uncle on the farm. He has sheep and cattle and tractors. I want to be a farmer when I grow up." George Dunnett said that he made a sledge. He went on to say that when they look out on the North Sea there are two castles Sinclair and Ginnigoe.

Ian Leith said that his father works at a quarry. He repairs lorries. Edinburgh is the capital of Scotland and he said he had been in the castle there and the speedway. There are lots of shops and they are very big. There is a floral clock in Princes street. The castle is built on a rock. Soldiers live in the castle now.

Elizabeth Coghill wrote about what they do in school. "We get a sum test every Friday. We get painting on Friday. We have flowers in school. We rolled our eggs on Easter Day."

It was P. A. Sillers, director of elementary education in Sedalia public schools, who asked Mrs. Ellis if she would be interested in such a program a year ago last fall, and she said she would. That was how it all started in Heber Hunt School. They didn't get a school until spring and it was Achergill school in Scotland. Learning the Sedalia school was such a big one, Jean Roy, teacher of Achergill, was glad when she found that Mrs. Ellis had once taught a school like hers.

The replies to the Heber Hunt school pupils letters and pictures came too late for Mrs. Ellis' last year fourth graders who have now moved up to fifth grade, but the youngsters were thrilled to give up a recess on a day last fall to read the letters and look at what had come from Scotland.

The children in Mrs. Ellis' room sent many things, a tepee and canoe to tell about the American Indians, pictures, letters and brochures on Sedalia, which they got at the Chamber of Commerce.

This year four of the teachers of second grade at Heber Hunt School, Miss Hazel Barnett, Miss Barbara Freund, Mrs. Marva Flournoy and Mrs. Charlene Bunker, have gone together and a school in Japan has been selected for them. They sent a package, photographs of homes during the different season, and they wrote letters telling of pets, family, life in general. Thanksgiving, a picture of the court house and one of the Capitol.

They have a letter from the principal, Saburo Mori, Imao Primary School, Hirato-oh, Kaizu-gun, Gifu Pref, Japan, who wrote:

"We are very glad to make your acquaintance through the school and classroom program of People to People."

Letters Seek Sentimental Postmark

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Three communities, diverse, thousands of miles apart, and so small there are less than 4,000 persons among them—are the Valentines of America and their hearts pulsate the nation's sentimentality.

When St. Valentine's Day approaches the beat quickens to rapid tat-tat-tats as stamping machines bang their romantic postmarks on thousands of envelopes just passing through.

Because this is also Leap Year it is difficult to estimate the exact number of sacks filled with scented, lacy, red paper hearts sent to these places to be remailed to sweethearts everywhere. But there will be plenty.

Named after a family of early settlers, Valentine, Va., is a handful of farm houses and a general store on Route 46.

"Nothing much happens around here," says Sheriff W. E. Hill, until the somnolent little postal station suddenly stirs to life at Valentine—sending time.

Heart of Texas

At the turn of the century on Valentine's Day the Southern Pacific railroad steamed into an isolated settlement 160 miles west of El Paso and another postmark collector's item—Valentine, Tex., was born.

Since then in this land of sprawling cattle ranches the community of Valentine has not grown much. It boasts of a Catholic and a Protestant church, six gas stations, three grocery stores, a tourist court, and 350 residents.

Ranching and railroading are the chief interests of the people here, says Mrs. Dennis Baldwin, wife of the town's deputy sheriff. But when February 14 rolls around, a third "R", romance, gets a very big hand at the post office at the crossroads.

The Buffaloes

Big by comparison is Valentine, Nebr., nestled between a game refuge where the deer, elk and buffalo roam, and the Rosebud Indian reservation. At last count the population was 3,445, 1,000 of this since 1960 the year Lyle Lindstrom became city manager.

Here where the waterfalls are the nearest thing to Niagara, love is a many-splendored thing thoroughly endorsed by Chamber of Commerce with a heart-shaped letter brand and a town celebration.

Valentine High School prepares a pageant climaxed with a coronation ball on the day of hearts, and the whole town takes part, enthuses Lindstrom. "And, oh, the mail we get!"

Love Everywhere
Still, Valentine towns are not the only ones to make the most of this holiday for the saint of sentimental messages. Billing itself as the "City of Sweethearts" is Loveland, Colo., which also does a thriving mailing business.

There are also Lovelands in Iowa, Ohio, and Oklahoma. Kansas has a Lovewell. There are Loving towns in Georgia, New Mexico, and Texas. Texas also has a Lovejoy, a Love Lady, and a Love Field rating as the most love-conscious of the 50 states. In Mississippi there is a town of Love.

But what's in a name? In Nevada, of all places, there is a community called Lovelock, and everybody knows that in that state the lock is never very tight.

Humfeld Is Named For Fixed Rank

Maj. Gen. Harold E. Humfeld, formerly wing commander at Whiteman Air Force Base during which time he held the rank of colonel, has been nominated for permanent rank of major general. Humfeld was promoted to brigadier general prior to being transferred to Michigan, several years ago, and a short time later to the temporary rank of Major General.

Maj. Gen. Humfeld is assigned to the Strategic Air Command Headquarters as Deputy Director of Operations, Offutt AFB, Nebraska.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Humfeld made many friends in the Whiteman AFB area during his assignment at the local base.

CD Ruckus

(Continued from Page One) sides at Smithton, and whose Sedalia Squadron is a part of the group has written a letter to the County Court expressing Civil Air Patrol cooperation with the Civil Defense program. The letter is as follows:

"Gentlemen: In view of the present state of flux of the Civil Defense program in Sedalia and Pettis County, I would like to voice my feelings to you about this matter on which you are apparently going to make a decision soon.

"As long as our national government maintains a Civil Defense program, I feel that we should maintain it at all levels in the measure appropriate to the apparent need and our resources. Civil Defense preparedness is a thing which cannot be turned on and off like a light bulb, it must be kept going constantly with latent capability to spring up high when needed.

"The Civil Air Patrol has instructed all units to cooperate fully with Civil Defense personnel and a CAP regulation authorizes all units to furnish transportation to such personnel as resources permit and when requested properly by civil defense authorities in connection with their mission.

"An adequate fallout shelter is a part of my home, it houses the necessary food and equipment to maintain my family under severe conditions for many weeks. It is equipped with radio receiving and transmitting equipment now operating on Civil Air Patrol frequencies and capable of operation on CD frequencies for which arrangements have been made with CD Director, Jack Kraus. I also have agreed to serve as radiological monitor in my area and have completed the prescribed training.

"In short, I am willing to give considerable time and resources to help the program. I recall the sudden rush to obtain shelter information and the quick hunger for knowledge about radiation effects that was brought about by the Cuban crisis. These things have faded into the dim curtain of lethargy but will certainly flash out at each consequential tightening of world stress.

"I hope you Gentlemen will see fit to maintain a level of CD preparedness as your good judgment dictates. A warm, idling engine is capable of maximum performance, the cold start we were forced to make in December 1941 was expensive and discouraging.

"There is no doubt in my mind that CD Director Jack Kraus is qualified to spark the program and I believe he has the necessary convictions to keep him dedicated to the program.

"Sincerely,

Commander"

Viebrocks
Will Hold
Open House

Open house in observance of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Viebrock, 1405 South Garfield, will be held Sunday, Feb. 23, in the basement of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Broadway and Massachusetts, between the hours of 2 and 4 in the afternoon.

Civil

(Continued from Page One) located as soon as possible. This means that the EOC must be moved out, lock, stock and barrel, from its present location."

Presiding Judge C. Berry Elliott said Thursday that the court had suggested to Kraus that the Emergency Operation Center be moved. The court had proposed that the move be completed by April. Elliott stated, but added that no deadline for completion of the move had been given to Kraus and the agency.

Much of the County Court's objection to maintaining the Emergency Operation Center in the courthouse basement arose from the agency's request to bury a 500-gallon reserve gasoline tank in the courthouse lawn. This reserve tank would store fuel for an emergency power generator in the control center. The court maintains fire insurance underwriters will not permit such a setup and the gasoline was labeled a fire hazard.

Civil Defense members, however, countered that shutoff valves would make the fuel tank as safe as possible and later proposed conversion of the generator to diesel fuel—a less volatile mixture.

"I question that volunteer workers would have contributed hundreds of hours to develop the EOC to its present capabilities if they had known that it would be dismantled and relocated—and possibly in a few months entirely washed out," Kraus said. "In order for us to make such a move, we must first find a public building which is structurally suitable to our operations. Thus far we are aware of only one such building which would meet our requirements and future needs.

"Even if such a structure is found and the volunteer workers and the city and county are willing to take such a move, the future of organized Civil Defense in our community does not go beyond the city's fiscal situation.

"We have a problem concerning the Civil Defense field hospital which is presently stored in Liberty Park's Convention Hall. The federal government, through the State Civil Defense agency, stands ready to lay in a large block of additional medical supplies for this emergency hospital unit. We will need approximately double the area now required for this storage when the next stock of medical supplies is received. In the event of our agency's discontinuance or if adequate storage space is not located for this 40,000 field hospital unit, these supplies and the unit itself will be made immediately available to another community elsewhere in the state.

"This budget situation our agency has been faced with every six months, for the past two years, has greatly limited what our organization has been able to accomplish," Kraus said. "Since the main object of this agency is to work for the welfare of the public—throughout Pettis County under any emergency condition—it would seem only practical that the future of this agency should be based on solid ground, rather than face the unstable conditions which have prevailed in the past.

"These same conditions were reaffirmed this morning by the members of the County Court. As Councilman Bob Bader has indicated the way to kill an agency such as ours, is to keep chopping away at its budget. This budget does not now involve just the director's salary. It also involves the agency in its entirety. Without the necessary equipment and the firm knowledge that the volunteers' efforts will be of a lasting nature, it is impossible to develop and put into operation the many volunteer programs which make up the Sedalia-Pettis County Civil Defense Agency's overall operation. It appears that this problem must, and has become a public issue and justly so, I might add, because Civil Defense concerns the welfare of everyone—men, women and children—in our area. We are aware of a great deal of favorable opinion voiced publicly by many local organizations, groups representing the mothers in our community, as well as members of the Sedalia City Council.

"It appears that if the federal and state governments can carry on such a massive Civil Defense program, and do this effectively, that a problem such as our local agency is faced with, can surely be resolved," Kraus said.

Series Will End As Tod Trades Vows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The final chapter of "Route 66" approaches: Tod Stiles, fancy-free adventurer, is going to get married on the March 6 show, first of a two-part wind-up.

And then, with his happy bride beside him in his sports car, our hero will ride, in classic style, into the sunset, presumably to live happily ever after. Two weeks later, on March 20, CBS' "Route 66" goes into reruns—old ones, in which George Maharis and Martin Milner were co-stars.

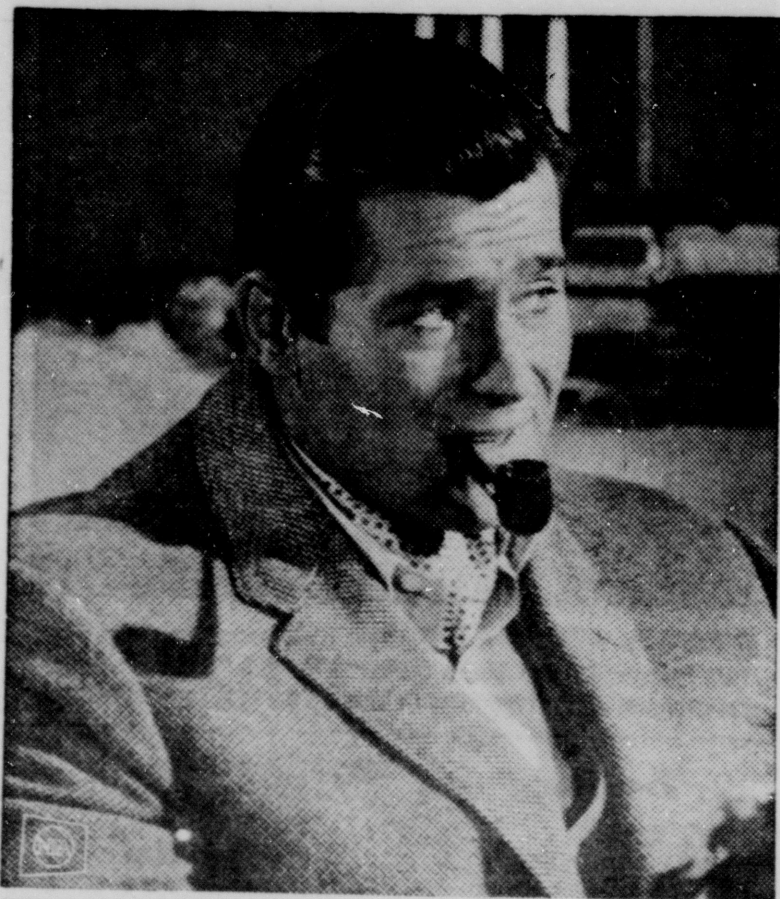

Tod, played by Milner, would never have been allowed to marry if the series had not been canceled.

Marriage is not only a nice way to conclude a long-running series, but also provides a handy way to "write out" a character who must disappear when an actor wants to leave the cast. Most recent example was, of course, "Bonanza," whose producer planned to marry off Adam Cartwright when Pernell Roberts wanted to quit the show. When he decided to remain, the lady was jilted—and fast.

An interesting change in another CBS series will start next Monday night. "East Side, West Side" will introduce a new character in the show, a Congressman Hanson. A couple of weeks later, on the show, he will offer social worker hero Neil Brock a job as his aide. Neil will accept, of course, and the format will change. But the switch is coming too late to save the show. It has not been renewed for another season.

CBS' explanation of Ed Sullivan's sudden change of mind about extending his hour show to 90 minutes in April is that he reconsidered taking on the extra responsibility and work of a longer show "on the advice of his physician."

The network which says he's not ailing, hopes that will bury all rumors that he didn't want to try to compete against "Bonanza's" popularity. The NBC show occupies the same time spot as that extra half-hour.

HE SAT IT OUT—Clint Walker, for seven years star of "Cheyenne," hankered for a change from range duds. He sat it out in Hollywood for a year. Result of the sit-down: silk neckerchiefs and cashmere jackets in a costarring role in a new film comedy, "Send Me No Flowers."

"DESTRY" RIDES AGAIN

Seems as if they can't destroy Destry. He started as the hero of a Max Brand novel, was a big hit in the James Stewart-Marlene Dietrich movie, followed by two remakes and now he pops up in a new Friday night series on ABC-TV. "Destry," with James Gavin in the title role, is described as a "light-hearted western."
